

Jobs-To-Be-Done (JTBD)

ID	Statement	Desired Outcome Statement	Priority	Evidence
JTBD-01	When reviewing newly published judgments, I want to quickly identify which cases are worth investigating so that I spend my time on the most relevant work.	Reduce the time and effort required to identify relevant judgments while maintaining confidence that important cases are not missed.	High	"The time-consuming parts... are finding them, and skimming and logging them." Ben also stated that the current skim-reading and down-selection process is "error-prone" and that "sometimes we'll miss a case that should have been included."
JTBD-02	When working on processing a judgment, I want every decision to be traceable so that I can justify why it was made in the future.	Ensure every case decision is supported by a clear, accessible record of the decision and its rationale.	High	"We cannot see as a team what we are actually looking at, what we have looked at, what we've discounted, and why." Ben described the desired audit log as "a really clear trail of decisions that we've made."
JTBD-03	When producing briefing material, I want to communicate the key points of a judgment clearly and accurately so that non-legal audiences can understand it.	Produce briefing material that accurately summarises judgments in language appropriate for non-legal audiences.	Medium	"Drafting up the summary... takes about three hours to translate from all that legal-speak into an understandable, distilled version." Ben also highlighted that the senior review checks "legal accuracy, tone sensitivity, and whether it sounds like legal advice."
JTBD-05	When working with the rest of the Case Desk team, I want visibility of what has already been reviewed so that work is coordinated and knowledge is not lost when staff are unavailable.	Improve visibility of case status and ownership across the team to support collaboration and continuity.	Medium	"A lot of work is happening in browser tabs, spreadsheets, Google Docs and Slack messages... the worst one is staff memory." Ben explained that if staff are away, "we have no way of understanding where they were with that case law."
JTBD-06	When reviewing cases, I want to filter and search judgments by topics, keywords and legal issues so that I can efficiently locate cases relevant to partner requests.	Enable efficient discovery of relevant judgments through searchable topics, keywords and legal issue metadata that align with partner requirements.	Low	"It'd be useful if one case becomes relevant in the future — we want to keep a log of that and our analysis of that." Ben also described wanting "that historical record of: here are the cases that we've extracted in the past, here's how they're relevant."
JTBD-07	When searching previously reviewed judgments, I want to quickly find past cases and analyses so that existing work can be reused when similar topics arise.	Reduce duplicated effort by enabling previously reviewed cases and analyses to be easily located and reused when they become relevant again.	Low	"I firstly look for any keywords in the titles that would make me believe the case has something to the topic that I care about." Ben also stated, "Keywords would be great... maybe a legal issue tag... anything with possible wider relevance... anything like that that could be queryable."
